TRIAL

COLONEL A. BURR.

MOTION FOR COMMITMENT.

EXAMINATION OF EVIDENCE.

TUESDAY, September 29.

Mr. Wirt. If the object be to shake the credibility of the witness, is it not fair to him and the conduct of the cause to exhibit the whole letter?

Mr. Baker. A very ingenious mode has been adopted by the gentlemen. We put the questions and they undertake to furnish the answers, without leaving it to the witness to do it himself. We do intend to shake the credibility of gen. W. and to make him produce the shake himself.

Mr. McKee. I understand the court to say that the examination as to the contents of the letter shall have no effect unless the letter itself is produced.

Chief Justice. Gen. Wilkinson says that he has no recollection of the contents of the letter. The subject matter of the letter cannot be established by the examination. But the witness may be cross examined for the purposes avowed by the opposite counsel.

Mr. Wickham. Do you recollect that you did write to colonel Burr in 1806? A I have before stated that I have such an impression; but I have no recollection of the contents of any communication made to him, although I remember the motive which induced me to write.

Mr. Wickham. You have no recollection of any particular expression? A No. Except a letter of October or November 1805-6. Q Have you no recollection of any expression or sentiment expressed in your letter of 1806? A I have no recollection. Q Was it your expression that we should have a war with Spain? A It was my opinion, and there was a very general impression that we should have a war with that power. Do you recollect writing any thing respecting the measures of the government in relation to a war with Spain? Have you no recollection of any opinion expressed in a letter to col. Burr? A I do not recollect having expressed any opinion respecting the measures of the government. The only expression of which I have any idea is one used in a letter of October or November 1805, in which I believe I say, "I fear Miranda has taken the bread out of our mouths."

Mr. Wickham. There were others published from you while in the neighborhood of the Spaniards. Have you copies of these letters here? I have the whole correspondence.

Mr. Wickham. We only want the letters of September & October, which state that war with Spain was inevitable.

Gen. Wilkinson. I think I may have said so, and I believe I have some papers here which throw some light on the subject. Here are my instructions to the officer who commanded the troops when they left St. Louis. (Gen. Wilkinson handed to Mr. Wickham copies of his instructions to Col. Cushing.)

Mr. McKee. What is the date of those instructions? A The 6th and 8th of May 1806. Gen. Wilkinson said that he would with pleasure submit the whole correspondence, if he could do it consistent with his own ideas of propriety. But there were contained in it such secret military operations as it might be improper to expose.

Mr. Wickham. I think you state that at that time the expectation of a war with Spain was very general? A It was so; and if my instructions to Col. Cushing can be read, they will shew my then impressions.

(Here Mr. McKee read the instructions of gen. Wilkinson to col. Cushing, dated the 6th and 8th of May, 1806; for which see notes K and L.)

Mr. Wickham. I think you have said that there was an universal expectation of a war with Spain, about the time when the troops of that nation crossed the Sabine? A Yes. I have said so. I had made arrangements for a general attack. Mr. Wickham. To what cause are we to ascribe the accommodation which took place between the two armies? A To a wish to spare the effusion of blood; and, perhaps, because on one side there were reluctance to fight. Q On which side? A On the side of Spain.

Mr. Wickham. Can you tell the particular motive which induced them to re-cross the Sabine, and change their position? A I think I can explain them. Immediately on my arrival at Natchitoches on the 24th of September, I addressed a letter to governor Cordero, whom I considered the commander in chief of the Spanish forces on that frontier. I communicated to him my orders from the president, and urged him, on the ground of right and of humanity, to withdraw his troops from the east side of the Sabine and re-cross that river. Whether this or the vigorous preparations for offensive operations which immediately commenced on my arrival at Natchitoches, produced the effect or not, I cannot tell. But the fact is that the Spaniards about the 27th of the month, raised their camp at Bayou Pierre, marching by their right intersected the highway from Natchitoches to Macogoches, about 20 miles in my front, pursued that route, and re-crossed the Sabine about the 29th or 30th.

Mr. Wickham. Was this after you had received the cyphered letter? A No. It was some time before.

Mr. Wickham. Had you any correspondence with the Spanish commandant, on the subject of col. Burr's expedition against Mexico? A None. The earliest communications which I made on that subject were after my return to Natchez.

Mr. Wickham. Had the jurisdiction of the U. S. ever been exercised as far as the Sabine? A I cannot tell.

Mr. Wickham. Was it in consequence of instructions from the government that you concluded the convention with the Spanish commandant? A No.

Mr. Wickham. I do not recollect whether that convention has ever been published. A Never.

Mr. Wickham. Have you any copy of that convention? A Yes. But until it shall be the pleasure of the government to publish it, I do not think myself at liberty to divulge the contents. I do not think it reconcilable to the duty of a military commander to anticipate his government in the publication of official communications.

Mr. Wickham. Were there any secret articles in that convention? A None. There was but one article.

Mr. Wickham. Was there any sum of money agreed to be paid on either side? A Not one cent.

Mr. Wickham. You note two letters to the President, one of the 21st of October, and the other of the 12th of November, 1806. Have you a copy of that of the 12th of November; and will you give me leave to ask, whether that letter was before the Grand Jury? A It was submitted to the Grand Jury.

(Mr. Wickham said that they called for a copy of that letter if the counsel on the other side thought proper to oppose it they might do it at once.)

Mr. Hay. We shall certainly oppose the production of that letter. The President has been consulted on the subject; and he has excepted such parts as he thought it would be improper to produce.

The Chief Justice remarked, that after the president had been consulted, he could not think of requiring from gen. Wilkinson the exhibition of those parts of the letter which the president was unwilling to disclose.

Mr. Wickham. The whole letter having been before the Grand Jury and acted upon by them we certainly have a right to call for it also.)

Mr. Wickham. Were the Spaniards in considerable force on the east side of the Sabine? A They were reputed to be so.

Mr. Wickham. What was the strength of the army of the United States? A About 500 effective men.

Mr. Wickham. What orders did you receive from the government in the months of December and February last? A I cannot say what particular orders I received during those months. Owing to the frequent changes of my position, I was for more than six months without orders. But it is impossible for me to answer the interrogatory to the extent to which it is put, without subjecting myself to severe military penalties. Nothing can be more improper or dishonorable than to divulge military orders of a secret or confidential nature.

(Mr. Wickham. There can be no doubt but under the sanction of the oath which general Wilkinson has taken he may be compelled to give testimony as to the points on which he has been interrogated. In England, nothing is more common than for the most secret transactions to be disclosed in a court of justice. Considerations of delicacy in the witness have never been permitted to have any weight.)

Mr. Hay. There is a material difference. Those were cases between individuals; this is a communication from the executive government. We are not at liberty to permit to know what orders they give to their agents; and to proclaim these orders to the world; orders which were given for the public good. There can be no doubt that the public good does require that various orders of the government should forever remain a secret.

Mr. Wickham. The gentleman did not understand my question. I asked general Wilkinson what orders he had received from the government in relation to col. Burr.)

Mr. Wickham. Did you receive any orders to attack colonel Burr, and his party? A That question may require some qualification.

Mr. Wickham. Did you send any officers in disguise to take colonel Burr? A I sent three.

Mr. Wickham. Their names? (Mr. Hay said that he did not think general Wilkinson was bound to answer such questions; that he was not bound to furnish evidence against himself, or to subject himself to prosecution. Although he believed that the exigencies of the times would justify the measures which general Wilkinson had adopted, it was left with himself to determine whether he would answer the question or not.)

Gen. Wilkinson. If the question goes to criminate myself I presume I am not bound to answer it.

Chief Justice. Would general Wilkinson be subjected to an action for sending to apprehend colonel Burr, unless he had been seized?

Mr. Hay. It may go to criminate him as a military man. He may have acted without orders.

Mr. Wickham. I do not presume that he acted without orders; but under the orders of government.

The Chief Justice said, that he could not perceive the application of the evidence—but as evidence was introduced to shew the flight of colonel Burr from Washington this, he presumed, was intended to account for it.)

Mr. Wickham. Will you state the names of the officers sent to apprehend col. Burr? A Captain Hook, lieutenant Peter, lieu. Mulford, doctor Davidson, of the army, and doctor Carmichael of the Mississippi Territory.

Mr. Wickham. Did you direct them to go without uniform? A I believe I did.

Mr. Wickham. Did you direct them to conceal the object of their mission? A I feel great delicacy in revealing my orders.

(K)

St. Louis, May 6th, 1806.

SIR, You are to embark to-morrow, and will sail early the next morning with Lockwood's and Strong's Cos. for Fort Adams, and on arriving there, you are to add Campbell's company to your detachment, and must proceed without a moment's unnecessary delay, up Red River to Natchitoches, where you are to take the command.

The point of your destination being deemed at present a critical one; it is desirable your companies should be kept complete to the establishment and for this purpose you are to make such disposition of the recruits ordered from Tennessee or elsewhere as may be found necessary.

Your remote position from the posts east of the Mississippi renders it convenient and necessary that they should, as heretofore, report directly to and receive orders from head quarters, but the commanders are to report to you monthly, and will be liable to your orders as senior officer of the district, whenever the public service may require the interposition of your authority, which should be made with due caution to avoid clashing with the arrangements which may issue from head quarters.

The posts west of the Mississippi are subject to your immediate command, and are to be governed accordingly. You are to appoint general courts martial within the limits of your district and to decide on all sentences which may not affect a commissioned officer agreeably to the rules and articles of war.

At the distance which separates us it would be vain and preposterous to prescribe precise rules for your conduct in command, where the occurrence of incidents and change of circumstances may be so unexpected and variable as to baffle anticipation and to render positive orders destructive to the interests of the country. You are therefore to meet the public service with a sound discretion and will be

SIR, You are to embark to-morrow, and will sail early the next morning with Lockwood's and Strong's Cos. for Fort Adams, and on arriving there, you are to add Campbell's company to your detachment, and must proceed without a moment's unnecessary delay, up Red River to Natchitoches, where you are to take the command. The point of your destination being deemed at present a critical one; it is desirable your companies should be kept complete to the establishment and for this purpose you are to make such disposition of the recruits ordered from Tennessee or elsewhere as may be found necessary. Your remote position from the posts east of the Mississippi renders it convenient and necessary that they should, as heretofore, report directly to and receive orders from head quarters, but the commanders are to report to you monthly, and will be liable to your orders as senior officer of the district, whenever the public service may require the interposition of your authority, which should be made with due caution to avoid clashing with the arrangements which may issue from head quarters. The posts west of the Mississippi are subject to your immediate command, and are to be governed accordingly. You are to appoint general courts martial within the limits of your district and to decide on all sentences which may not affect a commissioned officer agreeably to the rules and articles of war. At the distance which separates us it would be vain and preposterous to prescribe precise rules for your conduct in command, where the occurrence of incidents and change of circumstances may be so unexpected and variable as to baffle anticipation and to render positive orders destructive to the interests of the country. Instructions from general Wilkinson to col.
Cushing.
St. Lewis, May 8, 1806.
1 o'clock, A. M.

Advice yesterday received from major Porter, makes it my duty to direct the ac tuation of your movements by every practicable means, and I trust that in the present state of the waters, you may reach Fort Adams on the 20th instant.
On arriving at that port, the information you may receive must determine the course of your conduct: should the Spaniards have resumed their positions east of the Sabine, or assumed a menacing aspect at Nacogdoches, you must add to your com mand every man at Fort Adams excepting a mere locum tenens, leaving orders at that place for lieutenant colonel Kingbur y to fall down to the mouth of Red River and there wait the return of a sufficient number of your barges for his transport to the high grounds, from whence it may be most expedient for you, to march the whole of your command excepting the boat crews.
I hope major Porter may have taken the precaution to transmit the executive copy of the information he has forwarded to me, and that you may receive from that source, at an early period, decisive in structions for your government; in the mean time, tho' war be our trade, it is not only opposite to the genius and disposition of our country, but also to its substantial interests. The sword must not, therefore, be drawn but in the last extremity, to punish outrage, to resist invasion, or repel an attack.
Should indications justify it, (and you must take measures to ascertain, if possi ble the designs of your neighbors,) you are to call to your aid, every man who can be safely spared from the garrison, under or der, and will employ every pains and ex ertion, to put them in the highest state of readiness for offensive operations.
You will find in the hands of major Porter no order from the secretary at war, which might justify you in pushing your neighbors beyond the Sabine river, should they have recrossed it to the Eastward.
As it appears in the public prints that a specific negotiation has on our part, en tered these orders, you must not strain their construction to favor the effusion of blood and involve our country in the certain ca lamities and uncertain events of war.
Learn with all possible precision, the force composition and station of the troops opposed to you; be yourself prepared for combat and if a conflict must ensue, hav ing previously animated your men by a strong exhortation, and sworn your officers in their presence, to fail or conquer, make your onset with the bayonet and your own glory; the honor of your arms and the in terests of the nation, will be ensured and maintained.
Wishing you life and laurels, health and fame,
I am,
your faithful friend
and fellow soldier, JAS. WILKINSON.
Col. T. H. Cushing, first regiment U.
S. Infantry.
P. S. You are to take with you from Fort Adams an eight inch howitzer, which you will find there equipt and amply am munitioned.

A great Bargain.
THE subscriber offers for sale the House he lately purchased of the Bank. It will be sold much below its real value, and a credit upon that shall suit the purchaser.
Not sold shortly it will be rented.

SALEM, Oct. 13.
Arrived brig Alonzo, Burges, from Leghorn—Left, July 5 the Nestor, for New York; Heuty detained by the French; Robertson of New York, do. Spoke July 28, off Cape de Gari, brig Dispatch, Jones 80 days from Boston, bound to Naples; but capt. Burges informed him, that Na ples was blockaded by order of the king of Naples, together with all the ports of his late dominions. On the 4th August 25 leagues eastward of Ceuta, capt. Burges was taken by a Spanish un boat; they robbed him of a number of articles, took out 3 of his men, put on board 7 Spaniards and ordered the brig for Albozeme, a Spa nish port on the coast of Barbary, where the Spaniards send their convicts by some of which the gun boat was manned. A mong capt B's men was an honest Por tuguese, whom, as they could understand his tongue, they endeavored to induce to declare the property in the Alonzo to be English; for this purpose they threaten ed him, put him in irons, beat him, put a halter about his neck as if to hang him; and all these means failing, they offered him 500 dollars but he was too firm to be moved. The ignorant fellows who were put in possession of the Alonzo, finding themselves incapable of getting her into Albozeme, permitted capt. B. to carry her into Malaga, where she was im mediately released as no cause of detenti on appeared against her. Capt. Burges demanded pay for damages; but instead of granting it, they charged him 158 dol lars expeoces. The U. S. frigate Consti tution, capt Campbell, arrived at Malaga the 8th from Leghorn. On the 12 h, a schooner arrived from America, with dis patches for capt. Campbell, in consequence of which he shortly after sailed for Ameri ca, and sent the Hornet, (which was at Malaga) to Leghorn.

ADDITIONAL TRANSLATIONS FROM LATE FRENCH PAPERS.
Geographical Explanations of the Treaty of Tilsit.
"In the year 1805, the extent of PRUSSIA was 1516 square leagues with a population of 9,893,315 inhabitants. In 1806, the king of Prussia acquired an increase of 316,000 sub jects by the exchange with France of the pro vinces of Cleves, of Essen and Werden, of Anspach and of Neufchatel, against Hanover which reckons nine hundred thousand inha bitants. Prussia, therefore, had at the outset of the war 10,309,385 inhabitants; 5,097,593 of which she loses by the treaty of Tilsit.
The following is the enumeration of her loss es, as well as a statement of the countries re maining to her."
Losses of Prussia in Westphalia.

Western Prussia, 516,040, Total of the inhabitants on 8000 square lea gues, 5,211,792,
"Saxony, which reckons but 2,100,000 souls on 3093 square miles, has received by the treaty of Tilsit the following augmenta tions.
Inhabitants.
By the district of Cothus in Low Lusacie, 32,260,
By the Duchy of Warsovia, 2,027,567 assessed as follows Southern Prussia, 1,419,027, The department of Bromberg, with the circle of Culm, 220,000,
The department of Plock, A part of the department of Bia lystock, 73,000, 2,859,827
Therefore Saxony has now 4,459,827 inha bitants.
By the treaty of Tilsit Russia gains in the department of Bialystock 439,780 inhabitants, but she cedes with the small county of Jever, 14 to 15,000. Russia therefore has obtained an augmentation of 424,780 inhabitants.
The result is, that in deducting from the losses of Prussia the Duchy of Warsovia, the territory of Dantzick, the circle of Cothus, and that part of the department of Bialystock ceded to Russia, France has at her own dis posal 2,336,983 inhabitants which revert to her from Prussia alone: but to this is to be added:
Inhabitants.
The Electorate of Hesse Cassel and dependencies, 447,000,
The Duke of Brunswick's States, 209,700,
The principality of Fulde, 90,000, Total 746,700.
Therefore, the countries at the disposition of France, and the disposal of which is but partly known, contain 8,079,685 inhabitants.

From the N. York Evening Post.
The editor of the American Citizen, taking notice of the infamous attack made by certain democratic papers, on chief justice Marshall, has expressed himself in a manner that does him infinite credit. Af ter extracting a scandalous paragraph from a Baltimore paper entitled the Whig he goes on thus:
"Surely proof more ample than his pa tience, than his copious and elaborate opi nions, is necessary to warrant this audaci ous assault on the chief justice of the su preme court of the U. S. What has be come of the order and decorum, the so ber reflection and the sedate reasoning for which the U. S. are distinguished, when this violence and outrage can pass without notice."
After several very proper remarks he concludes thus:
"If, however, I may be allowed to ex press my opinion, it is that the chief jus tice is not the real object of attack, but that in Baltimore, Philadelphia, and New York, a combination of a few men (and they are very few) exists to throw off the old and introduce a new order of things. I make no pretensions to the character of a prophet, but I beg the reader to bear the remark in mind. For the present I will only add that I stand on my old ground; that I have an eye on some bad men of our party in the other states, who are co-operating with a few dupes in this city, and that in due time I will expose them. The people at large know but little of what is now doing, and perhaps it is well that they do not."

FOR SALE,
OAK HILL MILL,
And two valuable Leases, SITUATED in the county of Fauquier, on the great road leading from Ashby's and Manassas's Gaps, in the Blue Ridge, to Alexandria, Falmouth, and Fredericksburg.
The mill seat commands a fall of 24 feet in a very constant stream, issuing immediately from the Cobler Mountain, and is improved by a merchant mill fifty-five by forty-five, three stories high, two of stone and one of wood, containing two water wheels, sixteen feet in diameter, one pair of burrs and one of iron stones, with the necessary running gear and machinery, in perfect repair.— To the mill is attached a lot of twenty acres, in fee simple, on which there is a framed dwelling house, 38 feet by 20, with two rooms below stairs and two above, an unfinished por-tico behind, of the whole length of the house, and a porch in front, two excellent springs rising within a few feet of the dwelling house, and the mill supply both with water.
The leases are for two unexpired lives, contain one hundred acres each, and lay adjacent to each other, and to the mill lot. They have on them houses for the reception of tenants, twelve acres of improved timothy meadow, and one hundred and forty acres of inclosed land, adapted for Plaster of Paris and re-clover, and now in a state of high cultivation.
The terms of sale of the above property will be made to suit the convenience of the purchaser, to whom will be given an indisputable title. For the terms of sale or a view of the premises, application may be made to Robert

RAN AWAY, some time in the months of November or Dec. last, a negro man by the name of SAM, who was hired in the town of Alexandria to a Mr. Robert Smith.
He was about 30 years of age, about 5 feet 10 or 1 inches high, very straight, of rather a yellowish or tawny complexion, stutters a little, has a soft voice and generally seems humble and timid when spoken to. He had a wife at col. Jemmeson's in the county of Caroline, and may perhaps be lurking in that neighborhood, but I think it more probable he may have gone to the state of Maryland.
If taken in the state of Virginia and brought to me I will give the above reward; if in the state of Maryland and brought to me I will give 30 dollars reward.
